

SHOULD I SUPPORT SAME-SEX MARRIAGE

A TRACT BY JOHN POTTER

WHAT IS MARRIAGE?

According to the Oxford Dictionary, marriage is a ceremony in which two people publicly enter into a state of wedlock. The old idea of the 'wed' was a process by which societal consent was given for a man and a woman to live together in a permanent relation, to have an on-going sexual relationship and to procreate and care for children.

Why would two people of the same sex want to enact a marriage ceremony? Same sex couples do not need to be married to:

- Live together
- Care for one another
- Practice erotic acts
- Share income
- Leave their worldly goods to one another

Society allows all of these things to be done without two people going through a marriage ceremony.

Presumably the homosexual community wants:

- Community acceptance that erotic acts between two people of the same sex are legitimate
- Acceptance of the idea that there are legitimate family arrangements other than the traditional model
- The right to have children in their care

What I want to know is:

- Are homo-sexual acts something that we should encourage?
- Will same-sex couples teach children under their care to practice homosexual acts?
- What is the impact on children of not having parental role models of both sexes?

WHAT DO HOMOSEXUALS DO FOR EROTIC PLEASURE?

Males

Most male homosexuals practice mutual masturbation – a sad if fairly harmless act. After that, the most common sexual act between males is anal sex. This is problematic for the following reasons:

- Anal sex may consist of fingering or full rectal penetration with the penis. Both are un-natural acts. The anus muscles are designed for excretion, not penetration. And anal sex requires artificial lubrication; the anus is not self-lubricating like the vagina.
- Even with care, anal sex is likely to cause tearing and bleeding. Persistent anal sex requires regular anal reconstruction. (Ask any doctor).
- Many people practicing anal sex use condoms (to avoid their penis being covered with faeces) but many practitioners report 'feeling free at last' when they throw the condom away. This leads to semen being ejaculated into the rectum and colon with subsequent absorption into the blood stream. This has serious consequences for the immune system which has trouble identifying gamete 'half cells'. Some medical practitioners believe this to provide an alternative explanation of the cause of Acquired Immunity Deficiency Syndrome - AIDS.
- Some males use anal dilators ('butt plugs') and/or vibrators as an alternative to penile penetration. Sadly, many people do not know that you must never use a vaginal vibrator in the anus as it is likely to finish up in the colon. (Doctors report having had to remove vibrators from the large intestine of some patients). Fisting, pushing the fist into the anus is apparently practiced by some male partners; it is a sadistic practice more commonly used by perverted paedophile predators on their victims.
- Sexually transmitted diseases (STDs) are readily transferred during anal sex: gonorrhoea, syphilis, hepatitis A & C, HIV (AIDS), E coli, anal warts, etc.

Some homosexual males practice oral sex (fellatio), sucking or licking a partner's sexual organs. Ingested semen is digested in the stomach so it does not pose the same problem as semen absorbed into the blood stream. But fellatio is good way to develop herpes cold sores (HSV type 1) and genital sores (HSV type 2).

Females

Lesbians commonly practice various forms of oral sex (cunnilingus), licking and/or sucking the nipples, the clitoris and even the anus ('rimming'). As noted above, the latter two practices are excellent ways to contract STDs.

Mutual and self-masturbation are also practiced, either with the person's own or the partner's finger(s) or with a vaginal vibrator shaped in the form of an artificial penis. 'Rainbow kissing', kissing the menstruating partners vaginal lips, is another quaint practice

ARE SUCH PRACTICES ACCEPTABLE?

In a Post-Modernist world we are told that it is not permissible to say what is acceptable, that each person has the right to do whatever they want to do, whatever feels good to them. If that is the case, why do we have laws against practices like paedophilia and sexual abuse? The idea that everything and anything is acceptable is clearly nonsense. Our Parliaments are continually drawing lines on practices which are unacceptable. The question is: should we give respectability to the homo-sexual practices outlined above? Fisting is obviously sadistic and depraved. Rimming, licking around another person's anus, also seems depraved to me and other oral sex techniques seem sad and, some would say, disgusting. Anal sex is an un-natural act with considerable negative consequences. All in all same-sex eroticism has little to commend it.

In particular, we need to ask: If same-sex couples are allowed to have children in their care – what sexual education will they give them? Will they promote the above acts as legitimate and encourage children to practice them? I am disturbed by the reports like that of a lesbian couple in California that are feeding hormones to their twelve year old 'son' so that puberty is delayed and he has 'more time to decide what he wants to be'!

PROCREATING AND CARING FOR THE YOUNG

Traditional societies have long recognised the obvious - that humans come into this world as either males or females. Further they have ubiquitously encouraged a man 'to leave his father and mother and cleave to a woman in a permanent relation. The value of this idea of marriage is:

- Humans need to reproduce; a species that does not reproduce is destined for the waste paper basket! Despite IVF and cloning experiments, it still requires a human sperm and a human egg to create a brand new person. No homosexual couple is capable of creating a child. The Judaeo-Christian tradition is that a person 'shall not lie with a person of the same sex' as that is counter-productive to human welfare as a whole.
- The developing human psyche needs input from both sexes. 'Fatherlessness' is a major problem throughout the world. In the USA fatherless children are shown to be<sup>1</sup>:
  - 8 times more likely to go to prison
  - 20 times more likely to develop behavioural problems
  - 20 times more likely to become rapists
  - 10 times more likely to abuse chemical substances
  - 33 times more likely to be seriously abused
  - On average have a 72% lower standard of living
- Caring for human infants is a full time job, requiring at least one person to care for the child and another to ensure that the family is fed, clothed and housed. It is also expensive, and this is the reason that most societies contribute to each family's welfare via Government financial support. Homosexual couples contribute nothing to society as a whole so it is unnecessary that they should participate in Government handouts.
- Sexually transmitted diseases (STDs) are easily avoided by choosing the right partner and remaining faithful to him/her. Male homosexuals, in particular, tend to be extremely promiscuous, and it is not surprising that over 90% of AIDS sufferers in Australia are male homosexuals.

- The traditional notion of marriage encourages personal discipline – including sexual discipline. We expect paedophiles, including celibate priests, to be disciplined. Why not encourage young people to wait until they have the resources to back up their actions – to have good financial prospects before they marry and get involved in sexual practice with the very real risk of pregnancy, even in these days of advanced contraceptives?

TOWARDS A BETTER SOCIETY

The aim of government should always be to create a better society. We know that homosexual sexual acts have been around for a long time. And Hollywood and the Ford and Rockefeller Foundations have done a good job in promoting promiscuity to the current generation in the West in their sustained attempts to break down the traditional concept of family (see Bolton 2011, Revolution from Above, Arktos Press<sup>2</sup>).

Some commentators have suggested that one third of hetero-sexual couples have tried or regularly practice anal sex. And oral sex is also more commonly practiced than most people would believe. But is deliberately promoting these practises something to be aimed at? Should teenagers and even minors be taught that these acts are good and reasonable? That is what politicians in the West must decide. Are they in Parliament to promote practices because one small group want us to accept that they are normal and worthwhile; or are they elected to promote principles that prepare young people to live out a disciplined life which contributes something of worth to society as a whole?

Homosexuality contributes nothing to our general welfare. If the gays wish to practice depraved acts in the privacy of their own homes they can easily do so. But if they attempt to enlist my children or grandchildren in their cause, I shall be tempted to take a violent response. And do not blame me – I did not start the war!
